

Day One: Arrive in London 25-07-2012

Departure from Ronchi dei Legionari at 15:00 p.m. After arriving by coach at the Barry House Hotel, we go for a walk through Hyde Park which is near the hotel. The park is huge, but be sure to check out some of its key spots, like Kensington Palace, the Round Pond (where there are geese and swans waiting to be fed), the Italian fountains, the Princess Diana Memorial Fountain and the Peter Pan statue, commissioned by the author J.M. Barrie. After having dinner at the hotel you can choose if you want to relax or if you want to go out for a walk again.

Day Two: Hop-On, Hop-Off 26-07-2012

We spend our second day riding around the city on one of those double-decker buses for an all day hop-on, hop-off tour. There are more than 50 locations where you can get off the bus to visit attractions or explore places of interest. It's a great way to see all the key London sites like Buckingham Palace, Trafalgar Square, Big Ben, Parliament, Westminster Abbey, the London Eye and the many bridges that cross the River Thames. Be sure to make a note of any stops you'd like to come back and revisit for longer later in the week. We end the day with dinner at the Sherlock Holmes Pub, near Trafalgar Square.

Day Three: Road Trip! 27-07-2012

Friday starts with a full day tour out to Windsor Castle, Stonehenge and Bath.

On the way to Windsor Castle, we pass by the Ascot racecourse, one of the Queen's favourite pastimes. Windsor Castle is an official residence of the Queen, but it was originally built as a fortress to keep invaders out. You can wander through the State Apartments and view various treasures from the Royal Collection. After about an hour's drive we arrive at Stonehenge, which is quite literally in the middle of nowhere. Our final stop of the day is Bath, where we tour the Roman Baths and the city of Bath itself. After a two-hour drive back to London, we arrive at our hotel for dinner.

Day Four: Tower of London and Shopping:

28-07-2012

A morning tour of the Tower of London take a couple of hours during which we get to check out the location where so many important people were imprisoned and eventually executed. The Crown Jewels are also on display and make for a nice distraction after learning some of the grislier history of the Tower.

Free time during the afternoon which can be spent shopping in some of the well-known, and admittedly touristy, shopping areas, including Portobello Market, Harrods department store, and Piccadilly Circus.

Day Five: South Bank 29-07-2012

Today we explore the National Gallery in Trafalgar Square (admission is free!). The museum is immense and takes a few hours to explore: there are artists like Rembrandt, Van Gogh, Seurat, Degas and Monet on display, everyone is bound to find something they're interested in. Then we head for the South Bank for a trip on the London Eye which is the UK's most popular paid for visitor attraction.

Then we walk along the South Bank Walk, heading towards Shakespeare's Globe Theatre. The Walk runs alongside the River Thames and take us past such sights as the London Aquarium, Jubilee Gardens, the National Theatre, and several bridges, such as the Millennium Footbridge and Waterloo Bridge. There's also an abundance of street vendors, street performers and restaurants along the way to keep you entertained and well fed. After the walk we come back to the hotel to have dinner.

Day Six: Library, Tea and More Shopping 30-07-2012

We start our last full day in London at the British Library, where there is a room full of literary treasures on display. Since it is our last afternoon in London we make our way to Oxford Street, which is a shopper's paradise and offers everything from high-end shops, exclusively British shops and touristy souvenir shops. The end of Oxford Street (or the beginning, depending on where you start) meets up with Hyde Park, heading toward the west end of the park to have afternoon tea at the Orangery in Kensington Palace (which is the best way to end a very busy week touring London).

Day seven: 31-07-2012

Departure from:
London Stansted at 11:30 a.m.

- Accommodation at: Barry House - Hyde Park London(3 Star Guest Accommodation in central London)
- Bed & Breakfast + evening meal
 1. Budget Twin room - 2 beds for 2 people with en suite shower/toilet.(6 nights) = £649.00 → so - £324,5 per person
 2. 7 days bus/tram pass- £18.80
 3. Hop-On, Hop-Off tickets £ 26.10
 4. London Eye ticket £17.01
 5. Flight – 153,97€ (126,09 £)
 6. 150£ extra for museums, dinner at Sherlock Holmes Pub, ticket for Kensington Palace

Total Price → 662,50£

(Elda Gjoni)

LONDON

This fantastic 7 days tour, from 25th to 31st July, will be the most exciting and fascinating journey that you have ever done!

In the summer of 2012, London will welcome millions of people for an unforgettable experience.

So, come and you will have the pleasure to say one day that you were there during the Olympics Games!